REV. LOUIS WEST is shown at his "smallest church in the world" in Hudson, Mass., where he has lived since retiring as pastor of the South Baptist church in South Boston, Mass. The church, on Route 62, is five feet wide, 11 long, and can accommodate only four chairs, but as many as 100 people have stood outside for Reverend West's Sunday sermons.

Ike Enters Hospital Again For Head-To-Toe Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower went into the hospital this afternoon for the pre-election checkup he promised the American people.

After a complete head-to-toe examination at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital, Eisenhower will get the medical verdict of a team of eight doctors late Sunday afternoon. The findings will be announced publicly at that time.

Eisenhower has said that at no time his health was such that he couldn't handle his job. He would step down and forego his effort to win a second term.

Obviously, though, Eisenhower is expecting good news from the physicians. He has arranged a flying political foray into Dixie for Monday, the day after he checks out of the hospital.

Furthermore, Eisenhower only Friday added another stop, at Memphis, Tenn., to a campaign trip that will take him into Texas and Oklahoma Wednesday.

By squeezing a Memphis appearance into his schedule, Eisenhower has managed to set up campaign visits to all four Southern states he took from the Democrats in 1952—Florida, Virginia, Texas and Tennessee. Florida and Virginia are on Monday's card.

TENNESSEE Republicans reportedly have been telling the White House Eisenhower has a good chance of winning the state again and that a personal visit there might be the thing that would clinch it. Four years ago Eisenhower won in Tennessee by 2,437 votes out of a total of 900,000.

While White House officials have been saying right along that the President is in good health, there still is in the background the fact that he had a major operation less than a month after a complete physical checkup in mid-May. That was the last time Eisenhower got a top-to-toe going over from his doctors. They reported his condition as good.

Then June 9, some four weeks after the physicians said X-ray examinations showed "a normally functioning digestive tract," the President underwent surgery for an intestinal obstruction.

Eisenhower also is still taking precautions as a result of his heart attack in September of last year, including use of an anticoagulant which decreases the clotting tendency of the blood.

Death Penalty Given Woman In Indiana

CROWN POINT, Ind. (AP)—A three-married woman, convicted of killing her young sister-in-law and accused of slaying her paraplegic husband, his mother and sister, Friday became the first woman in Indiana history sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Mrs. Opal Collins, 25, of nearby Hammond, fainting when Criminal Court Judge William Murray imposed the sentence. The death penalty was recommended by an all-male jury which convicted her of the murder of Mary Sue Collins, 11, last May. The jury deliberated the case 23 hours.

Judge Murray set the execution date for Feb. 15 in the Indiana State penitentiary in Michigan City. Cleve Stenhouse, attorney for the twice-divorced Mrs. Collins said an appeal probably would be made. He had based her defense on temporary insanity.

Mrs. Collins has been indicted for the slaying of her husband, Ben Collins, 28, whom she married four weeks before the shooting in their Hammond home; his mother, Julia, 48, and sister, Martha, 14. She was tried only for Mary Sue's death.

Judge Is Amazed At Man's Actions

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I was driving along and I saw a beautiful girl," explained Joseph Bommarito. "I just had to see her again."

This was his explanation in court Friday for the 33 holes he drilled in 32 doors in four apartment buildings.

Judge Louis Comerford, shaking his head in amazement, sentenced Bommarito to three consecutive 60-day terms in the city workhouse, then paroled him.

Phone Company Gets Orders

PUCO Asks For Plan For Emergency Service

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has ordered the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. to file plans for setting up emergency service in the Portsmouth area.

The company Friday was ordered to tell how many workers would be needed to establish telephone service at the Portsmouth, New Boston and Sciotoville exchanges and to outline other aspects of such a plan.

Commission Chairman Robert Moulton stressed that the order does not mean service must be established. A hearing probably would be necessary to do that.

The area has been without service since Oct. 16 when the company suspended operations for the third time in the strife-marked strike by the Communications Workers of America (CWA) against the company, now in its 105th day. The company was given until noon Tuesday to file a plan.

THE COMMISSION said it felt that the "health, safety and welfare" of the three communities require emergency service. It defined this as service "dealing with situations in which property or human life is in jeopardy and in which prompt summoning of aid is essential."

In other announcements Friday concerning the strike: The company said negotiations with CWA officials would resume sometime next week.

The Ohio Industrial Commission said its report on a hearing dealing with causes of the strike will be ready Monday.

Protestants Set To Halt Reformation

NEW YORK (AP)—Sunday most of the nation's Protestant churches will observe the 439th anniversary of the Reformation.

Reformation Sunday commemorates the date in 1517 when Martin Luther, an Augustinian friar and university professor, posted his 95 theses against indulgences on the door of the castle church in Wittenberg, Germany.

The National Council of Churches is sponsor of the day. The Rev. Berlyn Farris, director of the council's department of evangelism, says the theme of the observance is "the continuity of the Christian church in the Protestant tradition."

Farm Disaster Parley Booked

CANTON (AP)—A meeting to set up the disaster aid program to farmers in eight northeastern Ohio counties will be held at the YMCA here Monday.

Lester Lee of the Department of Agriculture in Washington is coming here to direct the program for Ashtabula, Lake, Geauga, Mahoning, Trumbull, Portage, Stark and Wayne counties.

Under the disaster aid program farmers may obtain feed grains at price reductions of $1.50 a hundred pounds. They apply to the Farm Home Administration for aid then get certificates from the Agriculture Stability and Conservation Service. Feed dealers get reimbursement from the federal government.

ANTI-RED REBELS GAIN IN HUNGARIAN FIGHTING

Adlai Says Ike Only 'Shadow' Candidate Now

GOP Old Guard Seen By Dem As In Control Of Chief's Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called President Eisenhower today "the shadow candidate" of a Republican Party which is "afraid" to ask the people to trust the destiny of the country to Vice President Nixon.

He said Eisenhower is fronting for a GOP old guard campaign "based on a profound contempt for the intelligence of the people."

"In all the words he has uttered," Stevenson said, "my opponent has told you almost nothing about the issues of the campaign."

The Democratic presidential nominee, in an address prepared for delivery at a mid-day party rally in Washington state, said the Republicans say only: "Trust Ike, and don't ask questions."

"Who are we supposed to trust when Ike isn't there?" Stevenson asked.

"Above all," Stevenson said, "are we seriously asked to trust the destiny of America—the future of our children—the decision over the hydrogen bomb—to Richard M. Nixon?"

"THE REPUBLICANS don't say," he said, "for they are afraid to say—'trust Nixon,' 'trust Benson,' 'trust Dulles,' 'trust Wilson,' 'trust the old guardmen in the Congress.'"

"They know they can't persuade the people to trust the Republican Party," Stevenson continued, "and so they say, 'Just trust Ike.'"

Stevenson arrived in San Francisco after saying in Rock Island, Ill., that if the present race to find deterrent weapons keeps up, it will lead to the development of the cobalt bomb, which he described as "a force that can shake the earth on its axis."

The road to peace, Stevenson said, "is not to stubbornly insist, as Eisenhower does, that our security lies in the deterrent effect of our lead in nuclear weapons." Stevenson said "this course is the one we took 10 years ago about our lead in the earlier atomic bombs."

"And, to our surprise, the Russians caught up with us in no time. And they'll do it again in the hydrogen field. Maybe they have already."

"What does Mr. Eisenhower propose then—that we go ahead with the development of the cobalt bomb to try to gain another advantage?"

"No, I say the way to peace is not through fear and ever more horrible weapons, it is through faith and confidence and rising standards of living among the have-nots—the millions who tremble on the sidelines of this mad arms race in helpless terror and expanding hunger."

"No matter which party wins in November, another supreme effort must be undertaken, and if that fails, then another, and another—for leaders must lead, else the people perish."

Presidency Said 5 Jobs In One

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The U. S. presidency demands a man "capable of performing fulltime and with full vigor," says former President Harry S. Truman.

He told the Union League Club here that the presidency "is really five or six jobs rolled into one. It imposes a terrific strain on the individual who bears the load. But if he does not keep everlastingly at the job, and give it everything that is in him day and night, he fails to do so at his country's peril. The President's health is not an issue in this campaign, because all good Americans hope that his health will be good for years to come."

Politician Learns Aplenty Following Farmer Routine

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—George Spence, a city dweller who thought he spoke the farmers' language, planned a good rest today after a long day down on the farm.

The Republican candidate for Congress here was bone-weary and tired from milking cows, spreading manure and doing a dozen other jobs that make up a typical farm routine.

Spence, 31, who had allowed as how the nation's farmers lack "git-up-and-git," conceded he learned aplenty after following the footsteps Friday of farmer Herbert E. Bernal, 50.

The pair worked from before sunup to after sunset on a rainy day, mixing the chores with their views on politics, particularly farm politics. After it was over, each appeared as set in his views as before.

Spence is the GOP candidate from the fifth district, the seat held by the late Percy Priest, a Democrat. The Democratic nominee is Dist. Atty. Carlton Loser. The Democrats have held the job without a break since Civil War days and aren't expected to lose it now.

Spence's invitation to visit the Bernal farm came after he said in Washington that "if a man is to make a living on the farm, he has to get off his butt and go to work."

Bernal, inflamed by Spence's views, challenged the manufacturer's representative to "come out and spend a day, any day, with me and if you can follow in my footsteps I won't only vote for you but I'll also write a letter of apology."

Unannounced, Spence knocked on Bernal's door at 5:02 a. m. During the rainy day, they milked cows, gathered eggs, slopped hogs, fed the chickens (all seven-day-a-week chores) and then confined their work to odd jobs about the 327-acre farm.

In bidding goodbye, Spence said "I wouldn't have missed this for anything. My statement in Washington very definitely does not apply to Mr. Bernal."

Bernal may send Spence a letter of apology as he promised, but he definitely won't vote for him because the Bernal farm is located just outside Spence's district.

Scientists Sharply Divided On H-Bomb Fall-Out Dangers

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles dealing with a proposed ban on hydrogen bomb tests, now a major campaign issue.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Like a splitting atom, the nation's scientists are divided over the issues of dangers from fall-out and bans on H-bomb tests.

Many are speaking out publicly, expressing opposing views. This may be puzzling to readers who wonder why they disagree, and who is right.

Here are some highlights of the scientific disagreements:

Q. What are the conflicting views?

A. One from prominent scientists is that the degree of fallout so far has not reached danger levels, and won't even if tests were continued at the same rate for 30 years.

Another, held by equally prominent men, is that some of the fall-out might be unsafe already, or will become so with continued tests. Some fear the levels of fall-out radiation considered safe for humans have been set too low.

Others hold these limits were set ultra-conservatively.

They differ as to whether the risk to genes and human heredity is large or small. Whether, even if the risk actually is tiny, that this justifies our exposing any future children to harm, or whether this risk is justified to help prevent atomic attack that could wipe out the nation.

Q. How can there be differences of opinion on what the safe limits of fall-out exposure actually are?

A. For the simple reason that no one has an absolute answer to this question. Not enough is known, for example, about the actual effects of tiny doses of radiation on human genes.

Q. How can you tell when a scientist is right, or who is right about the hazards of fall-out?

A. He's right when he can prove his case to the satisfaction of all or most all fellow scientists. Sometimes he stands alone for years until he finds such support, or his theory or findings are confirmed by others.

Q. Do scientists think fall-out and the H-bomb ban are proper issues for election year discussion?

A. One group said "we regret the injection into a political campaign of statements and conclusions which extend beyond the limits of existing scientific evidence. Such scientific matters can only be evaluated by calm deliberations."

But other well-known scientists say the H-bomb problem "is one that demands the widest public attention and informed discussion."

2 High Ohio Officials Set For Lima Hospital Inspection

COLUMBUS (AP)—Two high Ohio officials will personally inspect security and other measures in force at Lima State Hospital.

That decision was made Friday by Dr. C. Earl Albrecht, acting director of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, and Dr. Leonard P. Ristine, state mental health commissioner.

They met for several hours with representatives of Local 1049 of the Government and Civil Employees Organizing Committee, and also with state Rep. Harry Corkwell (R-Ottawa) who had demanded something be done to prevent escapes.

Corkwell wrote Dr. Albrecht that "a lack of supervision is very apparent" and was alarming Lima area residents. His letter followed the escape Sunday of an inmate, Robert L. Whipple, 29, who took two women hostages with him.

Whipple wrecked the escape car and was recaptured. One hostage, Mrs. Lourena Spyer, 59, died of injuries in the crash.

Corkwell referred to that escape and the escape May 11 of four inmates who saved their way out of the institution which houses both mental and correctional inmates.

Dr. Albrecht promised to "look into further" a number of points involving security suggested by the union group. And he promised to meet next Wednesday with another group representing hospital employees—the Ohio Civil Service Employees Assn.

The superintendent of guard-attendants at Lima also is personnel officer. Corkwell said the two jobs don't go well together and that he would like a separate personnel officer.

A mental hygiene spokesman said the department has been trying for some time to find a suitable personnel officer.

Corkwell also suggested time-clocks be set up to check on movements of employees.

"I think the hospital officials will be on the good road to recovery if they get those things done," he said after the meeting.

"I think security must be tightened up—both as regards patients and their visitors," he continued.

"Most of the patients are people who have committed crimes. They are not there for fun."

More Troopers Summoned To Help End Revolt

New Popular Front Government Set Up To Appease Fighters

VIENNA (AP)—Red Hungary's western frontier guards were reported summoned inland today to help combat swelling rebellion, and border areas fell to anti-Communist Hungarian troops.

Roof to roof fighting went on in the heart of Budapest, where Premier Imre Nagy announced a new popular front government, including several non-Communists, in an effort to appease demands for freedom.

Austrian frontier police crossed the Iron Curtain line for the first time in the postwar period and fraternized with soldiers who said they had deserted to the revolution. The Austrians were told "we are brothers again."

"This is the most remarkable thing in 12 years," Austrian police said. "It means that the Hungarian Communist control forces have been withdrawn to the interior to help fight the rebels. Their old watch towers are empty. This border appears in control of the revolutionaries."

HUNGARIANS reported rumors that the Russians were forcing Nagy at pistol point to make his announcements to the Hungarian people, even that he had been arrested and that the Russians had taken over complete command in Budapest.

Nagy's desperate bid to answer Hungarian demands for administrative reforms was broadcast by Radio Budapest even as rebel groups told newsmen at the Austrian border the rebels have set up an independent Hungarian government at Győr, a western industrial town 70 miles from Budapest, to coordinate the fight against Soviet divisions and Hungarian units still in action under Red leadership.

A bespectacled former professor, Nagy named several members of his old party, the once powerful smallholders, in revamping the cabinet with hope of winning support of the masses and getting the rebels to surrender. Some, like he himself, are "rehabilitated" purges.

Radio Budapest declared in its noon broadcast "rebel resistance inside Budapest has been broken." It said many rebels had surrendered and had been given amnesty.

But the Communist broadcasting station had made the same declaration several times before while the rebels fought on in the

Today's Kids Sure Are Getting Smart

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff Tom Fasula of Ashtabula County, acting fast Friday, busted up a whisky still that had just started operating in a shack at the rear of its owner's home.

The distiller explained that to show his friends he could make moonshine, he had produced "as an experiment," what the sheriff later described as a pint of "top quality" whisky.

But after Fasula severely reprimanded him, he proclaimed: "I'm through with this whisky business."

It's just as well. He's only 13.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—After 24 years, depositors of the old Washington Savings Bank will be paid in full.

The successor bank to the institution, which closed June 20, 1932, Friday started payment of the 13th and final dividend. The new Washington Savings Bank said this payment would cancel the entire debt to depositors of the Depression days.

"HAIRY CHEST"

I consider a hairy chest on a man a sign of masculinity and when I'm on a date I always casually unbutton the top two buttons of my shirt so the young lady I'm spending money on can see how masculine I am. Occasionally I run into smart-alecks who make wise cracks like "Oh, how cute, a fur undershirt!" or "Eek! there's a mouse on your necktie!" but by and large young ladies go for this approach in a big way. In fact I'm planning to have a wig maker design me a special "chest toupee" that will really appeal to the younger type girls who are Rock and Roll fans. It's going to have sideburns.

Indian Grave Uncovered By Road Builders

Bones uncovered this week by construction men working on the Route 23 by-pass near Island Rd., West of the city, are said to be approximately 2,700 years old.

The estimate was made by Dr. Raymond Baby, well-known curator of the Ohio State Museum, Columbus, who traveled here to examine the grave where the bones were found.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff feared at first that the bones might be the remains of a foul play burial. But Dr. Baby's investigation revealed that the grave-site was an ancient Indian burial ground.

Dr. Baby said the bones, which were well preserved for the number of years they have been in the ground, were of both infants and adults, males and females.

THE INDIAN bones were covered with a reddish ore called hematite, which Dr. Baby said the Indians probably scattered over the remains of their dead at burial time. He added that this was a part of ancient Indian burial ceremonies.

The curator took most of the bones back to Columbus with him for further study. Other than an Indian arrowhead, the bones were the only items of interest found at the ancient burial ground.

U.S. Senator, British Envoy Nearly Clash

SAN FRANCISCO — Both U. S. Sen. George W. Malone, 66, (R-Nev.) and British Consul-General Sir Robert Hadow, 61, said they're sorry it happened.

The senator and the British diplomat exchanged words and glared Friday at the usually dignified weekly luncheon of the Commonwealth Club. There was also one wild, futile swing.

Malone, a 175-pound 5-foot-7 former amateur boxer, had addressed the club on the reciprocal trade agreements act and foreign aid. He opposed both.

After contending that the only two great nations in the world today are the United States and Russia, Malone asserted England is living on a 300-year-old reputation and building a population that can't be supported without an empire. The empire of yesteryear, he said, no longer exists.

As the audience filed out, Sir Robert paused near the speaker's table. Those present said the holder of the Military Cross for gallantry in combat told Malone he was a "bloody liar."

Malone vaulted the table and threw a haymaker which the 195-pound, 6-foot-2 Hadow ducked. Then the two stood glaring at each other.

Those present said Sir Robert asked David Bohannon, club president, to express his regrets to Malone and later walked over to the senator and said he was sorry.

Students Warned Deadline Near In Applications For Draft Test

Colonel Harold L. Hays, state director of selective service, today reminded students that application blanks for the November 15 selective service college qualification test must be postmarked not later than midnight next Tuesday, October 30.

The test will be given at approximately 1,000 testing centers located throughout the United States and its territories.

Testing centers for Ohio are located in most of the colleges and universities in the State, enabling the majority of students to take the test at the schools they are attending.

Colonel Hays urges students whose academic year ends in January to take the November test so they will have a score on file at their local boards before the end of the academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students.

A STUDENT may obtain an application from any selective service local board. "It is not necessary to obtain the application from the student's own local board," Colonel Hays said.

Students should mail applications for the test to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Illinois, in pre-addressed envelopes which will be given to registrars by local boards. Bulletins of information concerning the test are also available at the local boards.

Commission members said the syndicate's bid was exceedingly favorable in view of the "tight money" economic situation. The bonds carry an average interest rate of 3 1/4%.

WASHINGTON C. H. — DuPont Corp. of Wilmington, Del., has purchased a 67-acre tract four miles northwest of here on U. S. 35 to build an automobile paint manufacturing plant. The deed for the $67,000 purchase has been filed with the Fayette County recorder.

The purchase was made from Mrs. Kathryn M. Fuhs and her children. Construction is expected to begin in the spring. The proposed plant will employ 100 persons.

At the 8:30 a. m. service the Youth Choir will present the anthem, "Lead Me All The Way," under the direction of Clifford Kerns.

The Adult Choir will lead the congregation at the 10:45 a. m. service in the singing of "Open Now Thy Gates of Beauty," "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" and "I Lay My Sins On Jesus."

At 9:30 a. m. the Adult Discussion class will meet with the pastor for the second session. It is not too late to begin attending this class.

The Sunday School lesson will be "The Lord Is My Shepherd" from the Book of Psalms.

At 6:30 p. m. the Family Circle will meet for a Halloween party in the Parish House.

The Young Couples' Club will have a Halloween party in the Franklin St. Armory at 7:30 p. m.

Reformation Day To Be Observed By Presbyterians

Reformation Day will be observed at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

During the worship at 10:30, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will call the roll of the Saints and Fathers of the Reformation.

Special prayers will be said in memory of all who have finished their course and kept the faith. These are the people who have brought Freedom through Faith.

Rev. Mitchell will preach on the subject, "The Reformation," using the text of Jesus' words in the Gospel of St. John (14:6) "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

The Choir will sing the anthem: "Come, Ye Blessed," with Melvin

Yates singing the tenor solo part. The hymns will include: "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," "O Word of God Incarnate," "Our God, Our Help In Ages Past."

At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play, "Vision," "Benedicta Tu," and the Bach "Lento" from second sonata. Mrs. Clark Will is director of music.

During the worship, Mr. Mitchell will read the Service of Installation of Ruling Elders, in recognition of the election of Elder Eugene Thurston. Following the worship, a brief meeting of the congregation will convene to approve and adopt the budget.

In the afternoon, the youth of the Church will leave at 2:15 to attend the Sr. Hi Westminster Fellowship Rally at the Indianola Presbyterian Church, Columbus.

Men Have Charge Special Program At Calvary EUB

Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church this Sunday will observe "Men's Day." A special program has been arranged with the men of the church in charge.

The organ prelude will be played by Ray Beery. The call to Worship and the Invocation will be led by Clark Zwyer. W. C. Shasteen will read the Scripture lesson from Matt. 5:1-17 and Charles Huber will offer the Morning Prayer.

The speaker of the morning will be Clarence Brubaker of Ashland. He is a layman of the denomination and a member of Emmanuel EUB Church in Ashland.

A men's quartet will sing a special selection.

The congregation will sing the hymns: "Rise Up, O Men of God," "Holy, Holy, Holy," and "The Whole Wide World."

A welcome will be extended to guests by Dale DeLong. Special guests will be the Circleville Chapter Number 20, of the Royal Arch Masons of Ohio.

The Men's Day program seeks to make every man aware of his opportunity and responsibility to make Christ known and loved throughout the whole earth.

Through the official Men's organization of the church, known as "Evangelical United Brethren Men," some specific projects are undertaken. The special offering that will be taken during the Service will be used as follows:

To provide the needed funds for the promotion of Men's work within the Annual Conferences;

To promote the projects which are being sponsored by the Annual Conferences;

To provide for the budget of the General organization of EUB Men;

And to complete the commitment of EUB Men to the Reutlingen Seminary Chapel in Germany. This is the day that men let their lights shine so that men may see and glorify God.

Sunday School classes will convene immediately following the Worship Service. Clark Zwyer is the superintendent.

Children will meet in the Annex at 9 a. m. for study and at 10 a. m. for Junior worship. Mrs. Rough will direct the program.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I wonder if you could help me with the following problem: My boy, age two and a half years, whom I adopted at six months, can't seem to get along with my dog, a beautiful male fox terrier about four years old.

Daily before bedtime I usually give the boy a bath. Now it happens that the other day the dog was grumpy, so to save time I put them both in the tub together. While I was scrubbing and cleaning them both, they put on the most horrible howling concert one possibly can imagine.

The boy was yelling his head off for no reason at all; and incessantly tried to push the poor dog out of the tub; and the dog was growling and barking without end. As the boy appeared to be the most wicked I laid him over my lap and gave him a severe birching.

I like the kid, of course; but also love my dog and can't do very well without him, as I raised him from a small pup of four weeks, and have grown very fond of him. I now keep the boy in harness in his play pen, while the dog is running around the house. The dog seems happy and contented, but the kid is crying and screaming from morning to night without any apparent reason.

I have given him several spankings, some pretty severe, but they seem to have no effect on him whatsoever. I am at my wits' end what to do; and am afraid I am going to have a nervous breakdown in the near future if I can't find a quick solution to the problem.

E. W. M. H.

DEAR E. W.: Your outlandish tale sounds, on first reading, like a poor sort of joke. It could be a kind of levity, in mimicry of persons who seriously ask help — a cynical levity, that to cruel minds would pass for humor. However, I can't dismiss it at that. It is just barely possible that here is a case of a child in hideous distress.

Your handwriting is not American; it is distinctively continental European, with traces of 19th century penmanship style. And your emotional orientation (if such we may call it) to children and dogs (also to humor, if any) is not in the American tradition either.

With some few painful exceptions, kindness to children and primary consideration for their welfare, are outstanding characteristics of the American breed.

You write from an outpost of the British Empire; and it could be that your local theories of child care differ from ours. Maybe some few adults thereabouts would favor a dog ahead of a child. Or maybe you are mentally sick and don't know it.

In any case, whatever the inside story, I must say, just for the record, that your giddy recital affords a picture of criminal cruelty to a child—if we take it at face value. And on the chance that you don't know what you are doing, from the angle of reason and decency, I advise today's readers to reflect on the details, to decide whether this horror could be happening to their own flesh-and-blood.

Your references to the fox terrier dog ring true. Dogs of this breed are jealous disagreeable devotees, in (rivalry) relationship to master or mistress. If you really want guidance, consult a psychiatrist immediately.

St. Philip's Sets Carry-In Dinner For Sunday Eve

St. Philip's Church Christophers will meet in the parish house Sunday evening, beginning with a carry-in covered dish dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Who or what are the Christophers? Christophers is the name which has caught the imagination and fancy of people throughout many of the Episcopal Church parishes in Southern Ohio. The answer to the question, says The Rev. Jack C. Bennett, rector of St. Philip's, shall be the same as the recorded answer of St. Philip to Nathaniel in the New Testament—"come and see". Come and see is exactly what everyone beyond high school graduate age is urged to do by the parish council of St. Philip's.

The parish council under the direction of Mr. R. L. Brehmer Jr. is sponsoring this first and organizational meeting of the group in St. Philip's parish.

Mr. Lewis Cooper, program director for the evening reports that a brainstorming and 'you ask for it' will be the basis for the evening's activities.

Persons attending the carry-in dinner are requested to follow the customary procedure of bringing one or more favorite dishes plus any table service needed. Beverage will be furnished by the Parish Council. For additional information, members are asked to contact the Director for the Parish Council, Mrs. William Speakman at 941-X.

Further details have been mailed to members of the parish family.

WOODEN CHURCH CRUSADE HOUSING HOMELESS GERMAN RELIGIOUS CONGREGATIONS

Lutheran Baron Henning von Royk-Lewinski shows "wooden church" design to Michigan's Senator Charles E. Potter.

Central Press Association Correspondent

TRAUNREUT, BAVARIA — Since fleeing East Germany, 1,300 Catholic refugees have worshipped in a ramshackle barracks in this community near the Iron Curtain. Today, the refugees are worshipping in a new structure all their own.

Along the Iron Curtain — from Hamburg to Salzburg — new churches are going up. The churches are financed by the American Wooden Church crusade.

In West Berlin's Britz district, near Tempelhof airport on the edge of the Soviet Zone, 320 Protestants are worshipping in a new structure similar to that built at Traunreut.

The Wooden Church crusade is building churches in West Germany for Catholics and Protestants, and synagogues for Germany's few remaining Jews.

In all, there will be 49 churches — representing the 48 American states and the District of Columbia.

MOST of the churches are being built along the Iron Curtain. Not only as a symbol of Christianity's defiance of Communist atheism, but simply because the need there is greatest.

All are modest structures, none costing over $25,000. Although it is called the Wooden Church crusade, crusade leaders discovered that it costs more to erect a wooden church in Germany than one of stone. Hence, all 49 churches will be stone structures.

The crusade is the idea of Fulton Lewis, the radio commentator. It is headed in Germany by Baron Henning von Royk-Lewinski, a German Lutheran lay leader. Royk-Lewinski is being supported by German Catholics, Jews and Protestants in Germany's greatest postwar interfaith endeavor.

ROYK-LEWINSKI, a World War II naval officer and prewar German diplomat, explains, "Since the war the German people have been the target of an incessant torrent of 'Hate America' propaganda. The Communists are trying to drive a wedge between Germany and the Western World.

"Economic and military aid is not enough. Spiritual ties must be strengthened. Each 'wooden' church will carry a message of faith and friendship from the people of America to the people of Germany and help to strengthen their faith in God."

Church sites are chosen after consultation with German church authorities, who purchase the land. At the request of Protestant Bishop Otto Dibelius, the first two Protestant churches were built in West Berlin.

ONE CHURCH is in the Heiligensee (Holy Lake) area, just a few hundred yards from the Soviet Zone. Heiligensee is a thickly-populated working-class district bereft of churches by wartime bombing. This also was the situation in Britz, where the first Protestant church was built.

Nearly 45 per cent of Germany's churches were demolished or ruined by bombs and artillery. Church construction and repair has been pushed, but the need remains staggering, particularly in areas of refugee influx (where the Wooden Church crusade is concentrated).

Bishop Dibelius and Catholic Bishop Wilhelm Weskamm report hundreds of congregations, both Protestant and Catholic, are housed in schoolrooms, town halls, barracks and even beer

LET'S GO TO CHURCH TOGETHER

The good thing about this is that Dan and Betty and those other youngsters too are here, in Church, because they want to be!

No one made them come. No one told them that they had to. No one threatened punishment if they didn't.

Though outside it is a bright sunny day and the woods and fields and streams beckon, they are here, in God's house, at prayer.

They'd like the country and the world to know that despite all this alarming "juvenile delinquency" there are good teen-agers too.

There are teen-agers who have been instructed in the Christian way of life, and who have discovered what the Church can mean to them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LOOKING AHEAD

THOUGHTFUL Americans often wonder about the fate of the next generation, tax-ridden and saddled with a $275 billion debt. The prospect seems to be that the next generation will be saddled with still more taxes and debt.

More and more voters are demanding pensions, and political response to popular clamor being what it is, seem to have a good chance of latching on to them.

There is today one citizen 65 years of age or more for every eight citizens of working age. Experts who study population trends predict that 25 years hence there will be one older to every five persons of working age. The five will be called upon to pay the pension of one man or woman.

If inflation continues on its present course, that pension will be considerably higher than the sums now mentioned.

Pensions for veterans, public employees and those under the old age insurance program will come out of taxes. That will put the tax bill higher and higher. Pensions for union members in industry will be added to the price of the product. That will boost the cost of living higher and higher.

The next generation may become accustomed to still higher taxes and greatly increased prices. If prices increase in the next decade as they have in the last, a "cheap" automobile will sell for more than $5,000.

The next generation may be amused when it reads of the presidential campaign of 1956, in which each party accused the other of responsibility for the "high" cost of living and claimed credit for the "high" income of the people.

GOLDEN AGE AHEAD

BUCKMINSTER FULLER, a lecturer on experimental design for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, predicts that the basis for the conflict between "haves" and "have-nots" will have largely vanished in another 14 years.

There will then be enough sources of energy to provide a high standard of living for more than half the world's population.

Fuller recalls that in terms of energy available to each family unit in 1900, only 1 per cent of the world's peoples enjoyed a high standard of living. Today the figure hovers around 33 per cent. By 1970 it should pass 50 per cent. Then, for the first time in history the "haves" will be in the majority.

Fuller is confident this trend will continue, backed by atomic, solar and other sources of energy, until all mankind is on a high material plane.

That is hopeful thinking so far as the materialistic side of living is concerned. In anticipation of realization, the world should be developing a class of philosophers and teachers to show peoples, sated with goods and with increasing leisure on their hands, how to live.

Otherwise there will be millions like King Midas of the Golden Touch — undreamed-of riches all around them and nothing to feed the spirit.

EXTINGUISHERS IN CARS

FEDERAL LAW requires every motorboat to carry a fire extinguisher. Away from land a blaze around the engine or bilge may be mighty dangerous. The Interstate Commerce Commission makes an extinguisher a part of the safety equipment of every truck or bus operating as a common carrier across state lines. There is no law requiring automobiles to be so equipped.

But once in a while a car catches on fire. The driver who carries an extinguisher can then be glad he does. Or if he does not, he is lucky if a passing motorist comes to his assistance with one.

For the ordinary driver a fire extinguisher comes in the category of safety devices it would be nice to have along if needed. Small carbon-dioxide (CO-2) cylinders are often recommended because they smother with foam an electrical or gasoline fire. Sometimes quick action can put out a fire in an engine before the heat has blistered the paint on the hood.

Some drivers carry flares to set down behind a broken-down car at night. If a truck driver is careful to light his flares, why should a car driver take chances on being run into?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Ira D. Cardiff wrote to the Editor of the Seattle Post Intelligencer and sent me a copy complaining of my support of the teaching of religion, morals and ethics in the schools. The last sentence of Cardiff's letter is worth repeating:

"I have no quarrel with the person who has created a god, a messiah, or a heaven for himself, a hell for those who disagree with him, or any other fantastic belief, but feel strongly that religious doctrines, of which there are thousands, should not be forced upon the youth of America."

To prove his point, he cites figures to show that most criminals in Sing Sing prison were, at the time of the census and may be today for all I know, of religious persuasions, while those who admit to no religion are few in number, which is not unnatural in this country where most citizens, decent or indecent, have some kind of religious affiliation, if not by conviction then by birth.

The argument proves nothing. In man's travail from the bush, he has learned more than he can do. Sun Yat-sen put it cogently when he said that it is easier to know than to do. One may pass examinations with the highest marks in all branches of mathematics, but not be able to build a bridge or a tunnel.

A professor of government in a university may know everything about government from the earliest times right up to this very day, but not be able to govern a state.

Children can be taught what is right and what is wrong and most will try real hard to do what they and most folks regard as right but there will be some who will be evil because of greed, lust, unfortunate companions, physical defects, and dozens of other causes.

The few faulty ones are not to be regarded as the yardstick for the human race. While man has not yet achieved perfection, it can be said that civilized society lives on standards that are higher than when each man carried a cudgel and each woman was a slave.

We do not murder each other over differences of opinion, as, for instance, Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr found it necessary to do to uphold their dignity. Hamilton was killed, to the great loss of the United States.

Few men have had to undergo an ordeal by slander similar to Richard Nixon's, but no one is being murdered because of these malignities. The right to differences of opinion is a moral advance and the very fact that in the United States, so many diverse expressions of religious belief are possible represents moral improvement.

In Soviet Russia, which rejects pluralistic concepts, only those who accept the philosophy of life advocated by the state enjoy rights which in such countries as the United States, Great Britain, France and similar countries are available to all.

Cardiff makes the point that during the "first 100 years of this nation's existence, it did not elect to the presidency a man who was a communicant of any church."

The time set is between 1789 and 1889. So let us look: George Washington was an Episcopalian; John Adams a Unitarian; Thomas Jefferson did not belong to any church, but regarded himself as a Deist; James Madison and James Monroe were Episcopals; John Quincy Adams a Unitarian; Andrew Jackson a Presbyterian; Martin Van Buren belonged to the Dutch Reformed Church; William H. Harrison and John Tyler were Episcopals; James K. Polk a Presbyterian; Zachary Taylor an Episcopalian; Millard Fillmore a Unitarian; Franklin Pierce an Episcopalian; James Buchanan a Presbyterian Abraham Lincoln was not a member of any church; Andrew Johnson and Ulysses S. Grant were Methodists, which church Rutherford B. Hayes also attended; James A. Garfield was a Disciple of Christ; Chester A. Arthur was an Episcopalian, and Grover Cleveland a Presbyterian.

I do not know what this proves, but Cardiff made a statement in his letter which, with very little effort, it is possible to show is not true. He also wrote that neither Eisenhower nor Stevenson "were religious before (underlines) they became candidates."

It is never possible to know what is in a man's heart and mind. Eisenhower's father belonged to the Christian Brethren, a Mennonite sect; his mother was a Jehovah's Witness. Eisenhower now is a Presbyterian. I do not know Stevenson's affiliations.

Silence isn't always golden. Sometimes it's guilt.

It is often contended Americans have not yet really become tax conscious. But they are being given every opportunity to get that way.

SYNOPSIS

Connie Barton's suspicions were aroused by her husband Steve's clumsy excuses for his regular Wednesday night absences. She trailed him to a private dance studio, and then realized he was taking dance lessons as a pleasant surprise for her. Keeping herself unnoticed, Connie watched the door of the studio till Steve left, and went in for a private word with his teacher. She found the instructor, Anita Farrell, sprawled on the floor—shot dead. In the corpse's hand was a paper silhouette of herself. Confused, Connie's first thought was to cover up for Steve. She grabbed the silhouette and the appointment book at the unattended reception desk outside and went home to confront Steve. She had to believe his assertions of innocence.

Police promptly got the names of all Miss Farrell's pupils and began checking to identify the 7 p.m. Wednesday waiter. When Lieut. Bolling asked Steve his lesson time, Steve said 3 o'clock Saturday. From the stolen appointment book Steve took the lesson time of a Ralph Tolley whom Bolling hasn't met yet. Using the name Hester Frost, and with a plan in mind to save Steve, Connie got Miss Farrell's teaching job. Connie noticed a ventilator in the ceiling of Studio K—the murder room—and set about exploring the possibility of the gunshot having come from there. While up on a catwalk, she saw a man and a woman and a girl arguing whether he should change going to "Rhinebeck Place." That is where the late Miss Farrell lived, at No. 11. Steve and tells her to meet her there. When she arrives she spies a determined young man in a hurry.

CHAPTER 11

The young man bounced past me, his heels beating a frenetic rhythm on the sidewalk. He was a good looking kid, but at the moment his face was clouded with trouble. It wasn't a face built for that. This boy looked as though he should have been laughing it up with the crowd at the corner drug store back home.

I hoped my hunch was wrong; as I watched him over my shoulder I hoped he would turn into one of the other houses on the block. But it was Anita Farrell's apartment house he went into. I hurried back to number 11. As I entered the vestibule the inside door was just settling back into its frame. I re-opened it an inch or two and listened. Footsteps were thudding on the stair carpeting. They stopped, and I heard a strong, rough voice say, "Where you headed, son?"

The next voice was the one I had heard from the catwalk over the Crescent School. My hunch had been right; this young man had just hurried down here from the studio next to mine. "What d'ya mean, where am I headed?" he said. "Who are you?"

"I work for the city, son. Police department."

"The police... what are you doing here?"

"Haven't you any idea?"

"No..."

"Where you headed, son?"

"To see some friends of mine," the young man said. He spoke easily. If he had anything to be nervous about, he wasn't showing it. "They live on the top floor. I just dropped in to say hello."

"What's the name of your friends?"

"Martin. Janie and Ed Martin."

"Martin. There's nobody named..."

Doctors Find Pregnancy Will Not Aggravate TB

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

FOR years there's been a great controversy over whether women suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis—even inactive cases—should have babies. In many cases, pregnancies have been halted because of fear that they would aggravate the TB.

Two Philadelphia physicians report, after a survey covering a 30-year period, that pulmonary TB is not complicated by pregnancy and should not be considered a reason for ending the pregnancy. More and more doctors are adopting this viewpoint.

Recent Report

Writing in a recent edition of The Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Loren M. Rosenbach and Columbus R. Gangelmi say that if the disease gets worse during or immediately after pregnancy, it is not due to the pregnancy but simply to the tendency of tuberculosis itself to progress.

Neither they nor I would recommend pregnancy during an active case of TB, but should it occur, their findings indicate that therapeutic abortion is not beneficial in the majority of cases. With the proper obstetric care and medical treatment, the pregnancy should have no adverse effect on the tuberculosis.

Many physicians, even those well trained in treating tuberculosis, advise women with inactive cases to wait between two and five years before they become pregnant.

Inactive Cases

From their studies, Drs. Rosenbach and Gangelmi report that in clinically inactive cases no waiting period is indicated before pregnancy.

They found no reactivation of the disease during pregnancy in any of the inactive cases of pulmonary TB they studied. But be on the safe side. If you have an inactive case of TB, discuss it thoroughly with your doctor before deciding to have a baby.

You might tell him of the studies I have cited above and see whether he agrees.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

H. W.: What is the treatment for worms?

Answer: There are many types of worms and the treatment depends upon the type of worms present.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The names of 160 public office seekers will be submitted to county voters for approval in the November elections.

Don Mancini, 218 Watt St., was home on leave from the U. S. Navy.

James Cockrell, E. Franklin St. resigned his post on the city police force.

TEN YEARS AGO

A Columbus motorist accused of speeding 70 miles-per-hour on N. Court St. was slated to appear in Mayor Ben Gordop's court.

Approximately 1,000 persons were expected to attend a barbecue and recognition program to be held for members of county 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America.

A county man accused of carrying a concealed weapon was bound over to the grand jury.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Several county 4-H Club members planned to attend the next Club Congress to be held at Ohio State University.

"Connie, the guy's inside."

"What guy?"

"The one we're looking for."

"But, Steve, how do you know?"

"He was down at Rhinebeck Place..."

"You've been there already?"

"Sure, and he was hanging around number 11. Then he got into the yard behind it from Greenwich Street, but something scared him away..."

"The cops," I said. "There's a cop on duty there."

"Oh," Steve said.

"And anyway, he isn't the one I phoned you about. My guy was there, too. And the cops scared him away."

"What?"

"Yes. That's a real popular spot, Anita's apartment."

"Tell me about your guy."

I told him about my guy, and I said, "Now you tell me about your guy."

"I've told you all I know. Except that I followed him here... he's here now."

"We've got to know more."

"Yes, Connie. I may be prejudiced, but I think he'd just love to tell you all about himself."

"Oh, yes," I had forgotten. I was a blonde. I got out my lipstick. "Describe him for me."

"He's at the bar... sitting right in front of the cash register."

"Don't go far away, Steve."

"Don't worry about that."

I waited into the Feather Club, spotted the cash register and climbed up on a stool two down from the man in front of it. The bartender accosted me. I ordered a sherry. I looked in the mirror at Steve's man. He was looking at a lusty redhead at the far end of the bar. I had competition.

My first impression of the man was that he was proud of himself. He liked his looks, the cut of his clothes, the debonaire way he smoked his king sized, filter tipped cigarette. Actually, he was handsome after a rather blatant fashion. I couldn't tell how tall he was, but he was slender, dark, and he had big brown eyes, bedroom eyes, a bedroom with a Hollywood sized bed in it. It was with surprise that I noted he did not have a mustache. He definitely gave the initial impression of having a well-waxed, Adolphe Menjou type mustache.

He turned his sleek head and caught me examining him. I let my eyes linger admiringly on his face a moment. I almost smiled at him, but not quite. I let him know that I, while not totally inaccessible, would be a challenge to his allure. Then I dropped my eyes. I took a dainty sip of my sherry. I sneaked a glance at the red-haired woman. She was glaring at me, and I knew that I was in.

One man becomes sure Steve is the "Waltzer" sought by police, tomorrow, in Chapter 12 of "The Blonde Died Dancing."

Our way of cooking Roast Prime Ribs of Beef the Old English way:

To make certain that the Prime Ribs of Beef are tender and savory to utmost, an old English method of preparation is followed:

The main feature consists of coating the meat with a one-inch layer of rock salt. The heat passing through the rock salt crystals is distributed evenly and thoroughly. When the roast beef is ready, it presents a spectacular picture with facets of the crystals of rock salt flashing beautiful amber and brown tones. The shell of the rock salt peels off in large sections and the surprising thing is that no salt flavor is imparted to the roast or its natural juices. Our roasts are permitted to rest between one and two hours after coming out of the oven to be at their best when served and the schedule of roasting is timed to keep the roasts one after the other to conform to the demand of the dining room.

CHS Tigers Score Early, Beat Greenfield For 1st Win

BY PAUL SMALLWOOD
Herald Sports Editor

Scoring the first time they gained possession of the ball in the first quarter, the Circleville Tigers held on for the remaining three periods to post a 6 to 2 win over Greenfield last night on the losers' gridiron.

In registering their first victory of the season, the Tigers played a determined brand of football as they staved off several Greenfield drives late in the game. The CHS crew also displayed an offensive punch, something which has been in the past several games.

Greenfield's two points came with only about two minutes left in the game. With the pigskin deep in their own territory, CHS quarterback Mike Hosler faked a punt and calmly stepped into his own end zone for a safety, giving the McClain 11 two points rather than risk having a kick blocked which could have led to a Greenfield touchdown.

Coach Steve Brudzinski's strategy worked, for on the next play after the McClain team received the kick, the Tiger's Ray Phifer intercepted a desperation Greenfield pass. With only a few seconds left, the Tigers ran out the clock.

THE LOCAL gridirers almost scored again in the second period when they drove all the way to the Greenfield two yard line before losing the ball on downs. Again in the third quarter the Circleville 11 moved to the McClain 22, but a 15 yard holding penalty and an incomplete pass caused the attack to bog down.

Due to yesterday's steady rain, the Greenfield gridiron was muddy and very slippery. Several times runners of both teams appeared to be off for long gains only to have their feet slide out from under them.

Greenfield received the opening kickoff and promptly moved from their own 25 yard line to the Circleville 22 before losing the ball on a fumble. With McClaren, Phifer and Arledge lugging the pigskin, the Tigers moved the ball to the Greenfield 47 yard line in five plays.

After being set back five yards for an offside penalty, CHS right halfback Arledge burst through the middle, reversed his field beautifully and raced 28 yards to the McClain 12 before he was tripped up from behind the last Greenfield defender.

Three plays later, left half Mc-

Claren smashed into the end zone from three yards out. McClaren's off-tackle slant for the extra point was short and the scoreboard showed Circleville 6, Greenfield 0.

The Tigers' second scoring opportunity came after Greenfield fumbled again, the Tigers recovering this time on the McClain 34 yard line. With Hosler, McClaren, Arledge and Phifer carrying for sizable gains, the CHS 11 appeared to be headed for another quick score. However, the Greenfield line tightened and held on a fourth and two situation on their own three yard stripe.

FOLLOWING the second half kickoff, the Tigers fashioned another attack that carried them to the Greenfield 22 yard line. As has been the case several times this year, the goal-ward drive faltered as the result of a costly 15 yard penalty, this time for holding.

With neither team able to move consistently for the remainder of the third quarter, the Greenfield crew made an all out effort in the final stanza to get into the scoring column.

Twice the host team penetrated to the Tiger 20 yard line, but each time the CHS forward wall stiffened to throw them back, refusing to give ground on fourth and one situations.

Circleville's efforts to hold their opponents scoreless, however, were hampered by another 15 yard holding penalty which set the locals back on their own four yard line. With fourth down and 18 to go for a first down, Hosler grounded the ball in the end zone for a safety.

With less than two minutes remaining, Greenfield's last hopes of scoring were shattered when defensive halfback Ray Phifer intercepted a McClain pass. The Tigers ran four more plays to consume the remaining time of the game.

Last night's hard-fought victory gives the Tigers a record of one win, one tie and five losses, with two games remaining. Next week the locals host Delaware in a homecoming contest. The following Friday they travel to Washington, C. H. for the final battle of the season.

Friday night's starting lineups are as follows:

GREENFIELD
Ends: Cope, Grooms.
Tackles: Carey, Duff.
Guards: Thompson, Weller.
Center: Hilderbrand.

Fullback: Grubbs.

Aching Browns Set To Meet Steeler '11'

CLEVELAND (P)—The champion Cleveland Browns, hurtling all over, meet a team here Sunday that probably will be in a bad humor.

Walt Kiesling, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, has threatened to fine at least a dozen players $100 to $200 if they don't snap out of the kind of "lousy" football they played a week ago in taking a beating from the Giants.

Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Washington share the cellar of the National Football League's Eastern Division with one win and three losses each. Cleveland's victory was 14-10 over Pittsburgh.

With George Ratterman on the shelf for at least a month, quarterback Vito (Babe) Parilli will have to be Cleveland's whole show at that position Sunday. Tom O'Connell, the young ex-Illini passer hired this week, won't be familiar enough with the club's plays.

If anything should happen to Parilli, Cleveland would be in deeper trouble than ever. One emergency move might be to take Warren Lahr off the defensive team and tell him to start passing.

Gridder Breaks Leg 'Several' Times

OAKLAND, Calif. (P)—Earle Norwood, first string quarterback on the Oakland Junior College football squad, this season has broken his leg several times. But he hasn't missed playing a game.

The 25-year-old ex-Marine plays with a wooden limb. And he says he's "safer than anybody else since I have only one good leg to break."

The 6 foot, 165-pound athlete is in his second year of JC football but his secret didn't get out until Oakland Naval Hospital aides found out why Earle kept returning so often to get his football leg fixed. He has another one for regular use.

Hialeah's Flamingo Stakes for 3-year-olds has had 27 runnings. The favorite has won 17 times.

German Postpones U.S. Ring Debut

CHICAGO (P)—The U. S. debut of German light heavyweight Willi Hoepner will have to wait because of an elbow injury. His bout with Chuck Spieser Wednesday has been postponed.

The International Boxing Club announced that Joe Miceli of New York and Carlo Sarlo of Chicago will meet in a 10-round nationally televised bout, replacing the Hoepner-Spieser scrap.

The Miceli - Sarlo welterweight bout had been originally scheduled for Nov. 7.

Knicks Trade Dukes For Laker Veteran

NEW YORK (P)—The New York Knickerbockers have made good their promise to trade big Walt Dukes, the tallest player in the National Basketball Assn.

On the eve of tonight's opening games in New York, St. Louis and Rochester, the Knicks sent the 7-foot Dukes to the Minneapolis Lakers for veteran Slater Martin.

The 5-10 Martin, smallest man in the loop, floor generated the Lakers to four division titles and four league championships in his seven seasons with the club.

Oldsters Vying For Gold Crown

PINEHURST, N. C. (P)—Two of the nation's best older golfers faced each other here today in the finals of the annual North and South Seniors golf tourney.

The opponents, Thomas C. Robbins of Larchmont, N. Y., and Jolwood Platt of Philadelphia, were to play the 18-hole finals over the Pinehurst Country Club course.

Each defeated a co-medalist in Friday's semifinal round. Robbins eliminated John W. Roberts of Columbus, Ohio, 1 up, while Platt dropped Arthur S. Lynch of Scarsdale, N. Y., 2 and 1.

Great Battle For Leyte Gulf Still Rages In Many Arguments

Struggle Always Was Classified As 'Close Call'

2 Retired Admirals, Kinkaid And Halsey, In Center Of Hissle

A number of Pickaway County's ex-servicemen were involved, directly or indirectly, in what many authorities now call the greatest sea fight in history—the Battle of Leyte Gulf in the Philippines. It claimed more than 12,000 lives.

Details of the far-flung engagement were somewhat overshadowed by the daily flood of war news then pouring in from all over the globe. But even on the day after the battle, it was apparent to the well informed that it had been a touch-and-go affair—a tremendous clash in which the outcome swayed dangerously in the balance for many hours.

The great battle ended officially 12 years ago this week, but many Navy men and others continue to argue its mistakes and timely decisions.

The engagements of that battle—Surigao Strait, Samar and Cape Engano—smashed Japan's navy and signalled the final phase of the war in the Pacific.

THE BATTLE blanketed an area about twice the size of Texas. Japan lost four carriers, three battleships, 10 cruisers, 11 destroyers and 7,500 to 10,000 men. The United States lost two escort carriers, one light carrier, two destroyers, one destroyer escort and 2,803 men.

The guns have been silent since Oct. 26, 1944, but the Battle for Leyte Gulf still is a battle of opinions and memories.

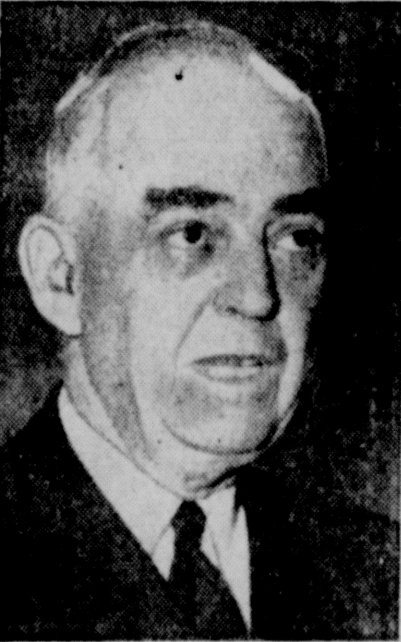

The two chief antagonists are both retired admirals, Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, Third Fleet commander under Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, and Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, in supreme command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's naval forces (Seventh Fleet).

For more than a decade, Kinkaid held his fire, but recently he opened up on Halsey, charging that he was lured away by a decoy force of Japanese ships while another enemy fleet attacked the unguarded invasion forces—like a wolf stalking an untended flock of sheep. Kinkaid's charges and Halsey's rebuttal are contained in part in a chapter in the book, "Sea Fights and Shipwrecks," by Hanson Baldwin.

A great armada of more than 700 United States vessels had steamed into Leyte gulf at dawn on the 20th of October and by the end of Oct. 21, 103,000 American troops were ashore and only three warships had been damaged. Beneath rain-drenched skies, General MacArthur stood on the beach and said, "I have returned."

However, the desperate Japanese admirals planned to make that return a bloody one.

ONE JAP FORCE moved north out of Singapore under Vice Adm. Takeo Kurita and stopped for refueling at Brunei bay, Borneo. There the force split up, with Kurita heading for San Bernardino Strait at night while Vice Adm. Shoji Nishimura steamed for Surigao Strait to be joined by Vice Adm. Kiyohide Shima.

The "key" to the master plan, however, was Vice Adm. Jisaburo Ozawa. His mission was to take his carriers to Luzon and act as decoys for Halsey's forces.

U. S. Navy carrier planes caught up with Kurita and ship after ship went down. Kurita, who had little air power, reversed his course in the Sibuyan sea, then turned around once again and headed back for unguarded San Bernartion, Kinkaid claims, left his forces open to attack from Kurita, who was approaching through San Bernardino Strait. All that opposed him were 16 small flattops under Adm. Clifton A. F. Sprague.

BACK ON his command ship, Kinkaid radioed Halsey, asking where the battleships were that he thought were guarding San Bernardino Strait. Halsey replied the big ships were with his fast carriers destroying Ozawa off Cape Engano.

Sprague, off Samar, threw his destroyers against the Jap armada to slow it up. In one of the most stirring spectacles in naval annals, the "tin cans" hurled their torpedoes and then popped their small guns against the giant Jap men-of-war.

The United States toll was heavy. The destroyers Hoel and Johnston and jeep carrier Gambier Bay went down. Earlier in the battle, the Princeton had been sunk. A Jap plane fed her a 350-pound bomb and she had to be finished off by her own ships after the crew had been removed.

On Oct. 25, with a dazzling victory in his hands, Kurita broke off the action, turned north and left Samar. The heroic stand of destroyers and planes and a smoke screen helped stop Kurita, but he turned tail because he thought Halsey was nearby and he knew that Nishimura had been defeated.

The next few days were devoted to mopping up operations. The battle was over, but not the controversy.

One of the quarrels is over communications. Halsey had sent a message to Kinkaid that he was "proceeding north with three groups." Kinkaid had intercepted an earlier message (one not addressed to him) that designated four of Halsey's battleships as Task Force 34.

This group was to be used against the enemy is developments warranted. When Halsey told Kinkaid he was "proceeding north with three groups," Kinkaid thought Halsey was leaving four battleships to guard the straits. He didn't specifically ask Halsey whether he had left those forces there until the next day.

NOW COME the "ifs." If Kinkaid had not intercepted that earlier message, or if he had asked for clarification of message to him or if Halsey had said he was leaving "with all my available forces," the mixup might not have occurred.

Halsey claims Kinkaid seemed to have "every advantage of position and power" to take care of Kurita's battered forces. Halsey's action report further states that Ozawa was powerful and dangerous. Halsey says he still is not sure that Ozawa's force was intended solely as a lure.

Kinkaid charges that his ponderous Seventh Fleet was "to land troops and keep them ashore... not to fight a naval action." He further charges that Halsey's evaluation of both Kurita's forces and those of Ozawa was incorrect.

Thus it stands today. The Battle for Leyte Gulf is history, but for Admirals Kinkaid and Halsey, it is a battle that hasn't ended.

Heart Specialist Gives Survival Data

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White, reporting follow-up studies on heart cases similar to President Eisenhower's, says that of 19 patients in the president's age bracket all but one survived five years. That one survived four. Even better, said the specialist who attended Eisenhower after his heart attack a year ago last September, 11 of the 19 patients survived 10 years.

Dr. White added, concluding a general statistical study, said: "Thus I have given you at least a more detailed statistical basis for our attitude about the President's recovery which a year ago seemed so dubious."

Roseville Man Gets State Liquor Post
